

The gaming industry has experienced a significant growth in the last years. As a result, many developers plan for global multilingual releases of their titles and international gamers become even more demanding, requiring premium game experiences. Commit can handle the localization of your game from start to finish, letting you focus on what you do best. You make the games, we help you reach your global audiences!

MULTIPLE PLATFORMS

Whether your game is mobile, online or console-based, we can provide comprehensive localization and QA testing services in a number of platforms and language combinations. Our teams are trained and experienced in the industry and are able to deeply understand the complexities of game localization projects.

FOCUS ON QUALITY

Commit focuses and invests on quality. We apply strict QA procedures in our everyday work according to our ISO 9001:2008 and ISO 17100:2015 certifications.

THE RIGHT TOOLS

Commit uses industry-leading translation/localization and automated QA tools that increase accuracy, preserve language assets for future use and drive down costs. And as for our voice-over services, the recording and post-production studios we use are equipped with the latest technology for professional results and five-star quality.

ON TIME DELIVERY

Meeting deadlines is crucial in the gaming industry. When a game is scheduled for global and simultaneous release in many languages, then there is no room for setbacks. We ensure your game is delivered to your target markets on schedule without compromising quality.

EXCEPTIONAL SERVICE

When you send Commit your video game for translation, you are assigned to a dedicated expert project management team that has the capacity to handle large, complex and short-deadline gaming localization projects into more than 80 languages. Our team will stay with you along the way, providing guidance and support at every step.

DEDICATED TEAM

We only use native and professional translators to ensure proper cultural adaptation of your content. Our linguists combine years of localization experience with a passion for playing video games. Rest assured, localization is not a «game» for us!
